In this newsletter:

1. New books
2. "All the news that's fit to read online"
3. Brightening up the computer labs
4. Databases for dentistry
5. Faculty of Dentistry web site
6. Summer hours

1. New books:

Two impressive additions to our collection are the new editions of Peterson's principles of oral and maxillofacial surgery (over 1500 pages, plus a CD_ROM) and Wolf's Periodontology (this is part of the Thieme series of "Color atlas of dental medicine" books and was donated in honour of Dr. Samuel Newman).

Other new books include:

- Dentists who care : inspiring stories of professional commitment (Quintessence, 2005)
- Integrated dental treatment planning : a case-based approach (Oxford, 2005)
- Medical problems in dentistry (Elsevier Churchill Livingstone, 2005)

For a complete list of books and theses added to our collection over the past two months (including call numbers to help you find these books on our shelves), please see our Recent Acquisitions web page.

2. "All the news that's fit to read online"

Would you like to find newspaper articles related to dentistry or some other topic? Or do you like to browse newspapers from around the world? If so you will enjoy Factiva, an amazing resource available through U of T Libraries. On Factiva's "Search" screen, you can type keywords and find news articles that contain them. On Factiva's "News Pages" screen, you can browse stories from today's Canadian newspapers, or you can choose another region instead (such as Australia, Brazil, Greater China, etc.!) (Since there's a limited number of concurrent users for this popular database, please click "logout" when you're finished.)

3. Brightening up the computer labs

We recently decorated the two computer labs in the library with art reproductions (purchased at an Art Gallery of Ontario sale with funds from our generous donors). Modigliani, Frida Kahlo, Lawren Harris, and more!

4. Databases for dentistry

Are you taking full advantage of the array of periodical indexes and other databases offered by U of T Libraries? While Medline remains the most important index for dentistry, there are many others you might find useful, such as the Materials Research Database (ceramics, polymers, etc.), and ISI Proceedings (conferences etc.). Why not check out our web page Databases / indexes for dentistry? -- an annotated list of over 25 databases, with links to each one.

5. Faculty of Dentistry web site

Helen Yueping He (who joined us as Librarian in January) recently launched the redesigned and greatly expanded Faculty//Research section of the Faculty of Dentistry web site, containing faculty profiles, lots of information about the Dental Research Institute, and more.
