1. RefWorks

RefWorks is a web-based citation management software which can be used to import references from Ovid Medline and other databases, organize references, and produce bibliographies in many styles. U of T Libraries has licensed this software for the entire U of T community. Librarian Helen Yueping He recently gave two hands-on classes about RefWorks to dentistry graduate students. If you would like help using RefWorks or would like to inquire about future RefWorks classes, please contact Helen He at helen.he@utoronto.ca or ext. 4371. For more information about RefWorks, please see the web page about it on the Gerstein site .

2. New e-journals

The following have been added to the U of T Libraries collection of electronic journals:

Dental abstracts

EMC - Odontologie (en fran^çais)

EMC - Stomatologie (en fran^çais)

Journal of evidence-based dental practice

Oral oncology extra

Seminars in orthodontics

If the above links don't work in your e-mail program, you can find links to these and all our dentistry e-journals on the library's Current dental journals web page.

Web address: <http://www.utoronto.ca/dentistry/newsresources/library/CurrentJournalHoldings.html>

3. Dental Decks

Thanks to our generous donors, we were recently able to acquire the "Dental Decks" for use within the Library. This is a set of over 2,500 "flash cards" designed for those who are studying for the U.S. NBD exams (but also popular among people studying for other dentistry exams).

4. Full-text dissertations

Many dissertations (including ones by U of T dentistry students) are available in electronic format through ProQuest Dissertations and Theses (which also contains abstracts for older dissertations). You can read an entire dissertation on your screen, or print it out. There is a link to this database from the Dental Library home page (under "Quick Links"). (If you are off campus, you will need to enter your library barcode and PIN.) To find dissertations on a particular subject, you can search for keywords in the title and abstract. You can also search by author, university, etc. (If you have previously used this resource when it was called "Digital Dissertations", please note that the interface has changed and some searches have to be done differently -- for more information or help, please contact Margaret Fulford: ext. 4607, margaret.fulford@utoronto.ca).

5. New dentistry books

Recent acquisitions include:

Holistic oral care : a guide for health professionals, 2nd ed. (Hancocks, 2005)

Immediate loading of endosseous implants in the posterior mandible : animal and clinical studies (Quintessenz Verlags, 2005)

Oral radiosurgery : an illustrated clinical guide, 3rd ed.(Taylor & Francis, 2005)

For a complete list of books and theses added to our collection since December (including call numbers to help you find these books on our shelves), please see our Recent Acquisitions web page.

6. "You pick the topic, we'll do the search"

Did you know that the Dental Library offers librarian-mediated database searching for faculty? You tell us what you're looking for, and we will search Medline (or another appropriate database) and e-mail you the results (citations and abstracts). For more information, or to request a search, please contact Margaret Fulford (ext. 4607; margaret.fulford@utoronto.ca).
