Welcome to the University of Toronto Dentistry Library's video on navigating the Main Menu options.

Slide 2

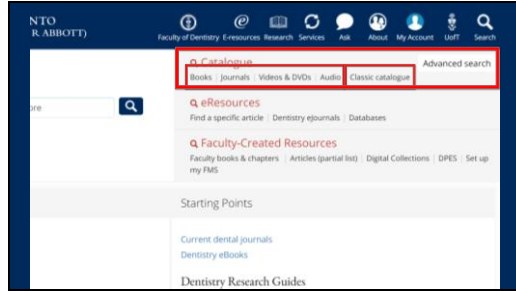

The Dentistry Library website does not display well in Internet Explorer. It works best in Firefox, Chrome or Safari.

Slide 3

The dentistry library website is located at www.dentistry.library.utoronto.ca. For this video, we will be looking at the main menu. The main menu is located to the right.

Slide 4

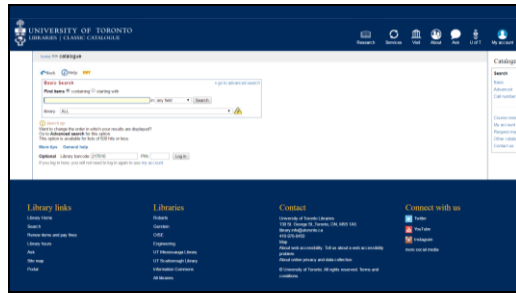

There are 3 sections to this menu: Catalogue, eResources, and Faculty-Created Resources.

The first is the catalogue. You can click on “Catalogue” and search everything or you can select the type of material, such as books or videos, and your results will be limited to that format.

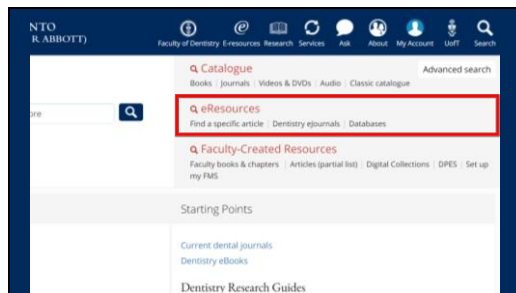

The “Classic Catalogue” takes you to a previous version of the OPAC that users may prefer to use.

Slide 5

The “Classic Catalogue” looks like this. It has the same information as the previous options, but can be used instead.

Slide 6

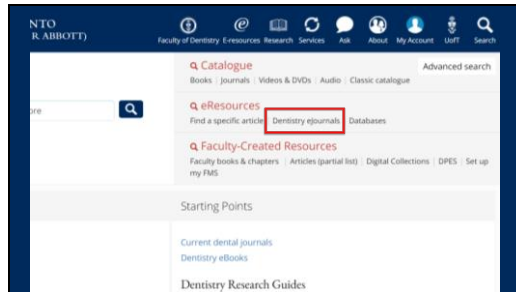

The “eResources” section gives you access to online materials.

Slide 7

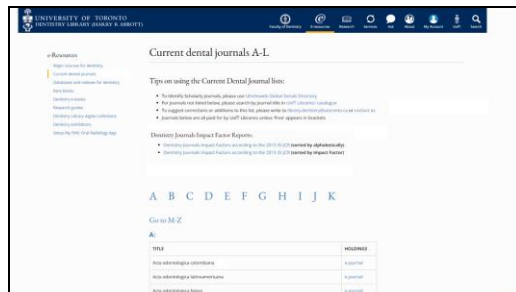

Clicking on the title takes you to a more detailed page on dental eResources. To learn more about these links, please refer to our other video.

Slide 8

The "Dentistry eJournal" link is commonly used by students to see a list of available journals.

Slide 9

It shows an alphabetical list of all the journals the Dentistry library has access to.

Slide 10

TITLE	HOLDINGS
Acta odontologica colombiana	e-journal
Acta odontologica latinoamericana	e-journal
Acta odontologica hancu	e-journal
Acta odontologica scandinavica	print e-journal
Acta odontologica venezolana	e-journal
Acta odontologica croatica	e-journal
Advances in dental research	print e-journal
AGD impact : The newsmagazine of the Academy of General Dentistry	print
Alpha Omegan	print e-journal

It is important to pay attention to what is written under the holdings column.

For example, we can look at the journal titled “Advances in dental research”.

Slide 11

Acta odontologica scandinavica	print e-journal
Acta odontologica venezolana	e-journal
Acta stomatologica croatica	e-journal
Advances in dental research	print e-journal
AGD impact : The newsmagazine of the Academy of General Dentistry	print
Alpha Omegan	print e-journal
Alumni today -- SEE U of T Dentistry Magazine	print e-journal
American College of Dentists, Journal	print

Under the holdings column, we see “Print” and “e-journal”.

The e-journal link will take you to the library catalogue page that will have the online version of the journal. “Print” indicates there is a printed version in the library.

Dentistry Research Guides

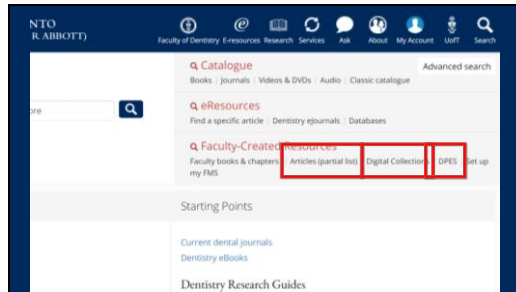

The last section is faculty-created resources. They are items produced by faculty members at Dentistry. The first is “Faculty books and chapters”.

Slide 13

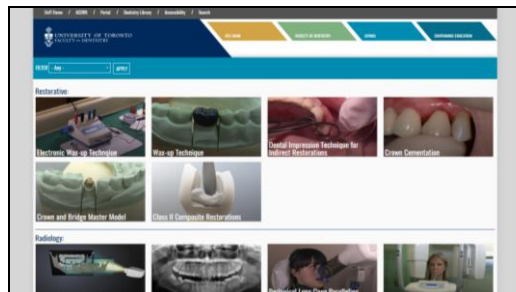

Faculty can opt to have their name on this list and we compile books and book chapters they have written or edited. It is organized alphabetically by last name.

Slide 14

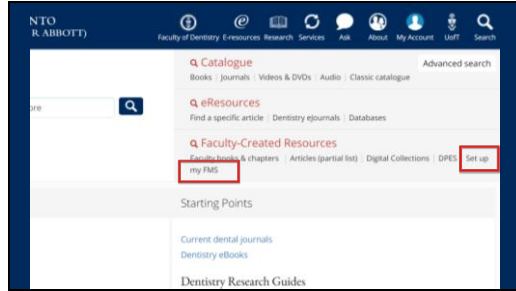

“Articles (partial list)” is a shortcut to a PubMed search for faculty members. We also talk more about the “Digital Collection” link in the Finding eResources video on our website. The next link is DPES.

Slide 15

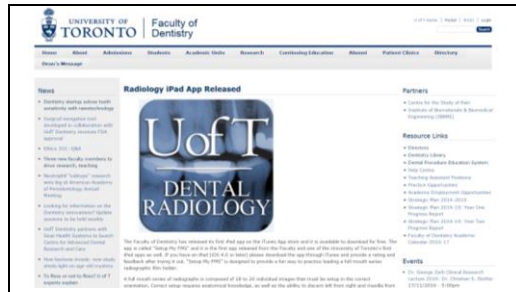

This is a collection of videos created by faculty at Dentistry covering common dental procedures.

Slide 16

The last link is “Set up my FMS”.

Slide 17

This is an iPad app that can be downloaded through itunes. It was created by two of our faculty members for oral radiology.
